Brush up on your OOSH knowledge with these great courses

Whose Time? Whose Place?

An Introduction to My Time, Our Place

Come and be inspired by this meaningful overview of My Time, Our Place. Designed for the educator to think more deeply about how My Time Our Place underpins their daily practice. Educators will be provided with practical strategies to extend their current knowledge and support their implementation of the framework in their service.

Tuesday 5 February 10:00am - 12:30pm

Whose Responsibility Is It Anyway?

An Introduction to Regulation

Educators working in OSHC needs to have a basic understanding of their legal responsibilities working in OOSH. This session will unpick the “must” and the “should” of the National Laws & Regulations giving Educators an all round sense of the legal environment they are working within. Many Educators struggle with understanding the legal framework in which they work, this workshop will solve this struggle.

Friday 8 February 10:00am - 12:30pm

Why Do Some Children Behave Like That? Behaviour Explained

Let's think differently about children's behaviour. All children are unique so this workshop explores what motivates behaviour and how to build relationships to support the different and sometimes complex needs of the children we work with. Strategies will be explored to allow participants to identify the 'recipe' that works for each child.

Thursday 7 February 10:00am - 12:30pm

Where Have all the Children Gone?

Supervision in OOSH

Adequate supervision is active supervision. Different locations call for different strategies and approaches. Knowledge, vigilance and empowerment are the key to quality supervision practices. Effective supervision is more than watching children. Come and discover techniques that work, whilst promoting a positive, responsive and interactive environment for children and Educators.
